Antari Business Partner Agreement

19 November 2026 / BP-2026-11-19-v1 / English

1 Joining the program

This agreement is between you and Antari Corporation (“Antari”), 5990 NW 102nd Ave, Doral, FL 33178, USA. It covers your Business Partner membership, referrals and, if you purchase Pod Stacks, your activities as a Business Builder. It takes effect when you accept the identified version and Antari confirms your enrollment.

The program is open worldwide wherever participation is lawful. U.S. sanctions may prohibit dealings with particular countries, territories, persons or entities, or restrict particular transactions. You may participate only where U.S. sanctions permit Antari to provide the service to you and any entity you represent. You must be legally able to contract. If you enroll for a company, you confirm you have authority to bind it and will identify it accurately. Use your own verified account. Keep your sign-in codes private and contact Antari Support promptly about unauthorized access.

2 Enrollment and sponsorship

Accepting the agreement enrolls an eligible account as a Business Partner at no enrollment fee. An invitation identifies a sponsor. Antari verifies the invitation and any existing relationship before assigning credit. Opening a new link does not transfer an existing sponsor. If attribution is wrong, report it before completing enrollment or placing an order. Creating another identity, self-referring or arranging a circular referral to obtain credit breaches this agreement.

Your account, sponsorship and order confirmations serve different purposes. Membership alone does not authorize a payment or activate capacity. Where enrollment is offered through a Pod Stack purchase, the checkout identifies the required quantity and the total you are asked to pay.

3 Documents that govern

When Antari offers a paid earning opportunity, the compensation schedule provided for that offer governs eligibility, calculation and payment. Membership alone entitles you to no particular commission rate or payout. The order summary governs the product, quantity, price, tax, currency and delivery commitments for that order. This agreement governs participation. Mandatory local rights prevail. A calculator, slide, translated summary, sponsor message or earnings illustration cannot vary the agreed price or compensation schedule. Keep a copy of the documents and order confirmation.

4 Pod Stacks and Resource Units

A Business Builder participates through Pod Stacks. Antari operates the cloud hardware. Resource Units (RU) measure capacity available for allocation to eligible services. An allocation uses capacity under the rules of the applicable AI plan. RU alone create no cash balance, title to a specified server, voting interest, or promise of a customer for unused capacity. A Pod Stack order and a customer’s AI subscription are separate transactions.

Checkout displays the quantity required for a first purchase and the limits for subsequent orders. Confirm the quantity, capacity per stack, total price and any taxes before authorizing payment. A purchase does not authorize a recurring subscription unless a separate recurring order expressly states its price, frequency and cancellation terms.

5 Payment and activation

Pay through the checkout offered in your account. A referral, invitation, consent record or payment attempt alone does not complete a purchase. After the payment provider confirms payment, Antari verifies the order and records activation and allocation in your account. If an order shows payment received but activation pending, keep its reference and contact support instead of submitting a second payment.

If Antari cannot deliver the purchased capacity, it will investigate and provide the performance, correction or refund due under the order and applicable law. For an incorrect charge, duplicate payment or cancellation request, give support your order reference. Do not send card details or sign-in codes. The refund and withdrawal terms shown before purchase and mandatory rights in your market apply.

6 What qualifies for earnings

Stack Earning concerns eligible Pod Stack sales to directly referred Builders. Pod and Subscription Earnings depend on qualifying subscriptions, referrals and the allocation of resources. The Infrastructure Pool applies only to Builders meeting the ownership and utilization thresholds in the applicable schedule. Grid Earning uses eligible volume in the Liquid Bucket calculation. The applicable schedule governs which branches and carried-forward volume count in each cycle. A name added to a Grid or an invitation sent earns nothing by itself.

7 Calculation and settlement

For each covered sale, the applicable compensation schedule determines whose referral qualifies, the revenue or Sales Volume (SV) used, the rate or split and the settlement rules. RU measure capacity. SV measures qualifying volume under that schedule. Use a conversion between RU and SV only if the schedule provides one. The same transaction can qualify for more than one earning category only as the schedule permits.

An estimate becomes payable after Antari confirms the underlying eligible activity, attribution and applicable settlement conditions. Actual earnings can be zero and expenses can exceed receipts. Do not place orders solely to reach a rank or reward. Antari may reverse the corresponding credit for a refunded, duplicated, disputed or fraudulent transaction. It will identify the transaction and reason for an adjustment and give you a way to contest it.

The schedule specifies payout timing, currency, any threshold or fees, identity requirements and applicable withholding. Contact support with the affected cycle, transaction references and reason for any discrepancy. Antari will review the relevant records and explain its determination. A dispute about one transaction does not by itself cancel unrelated earned amounts. You are responsible for your own business expenses and tax reporting, subject to any withholding or reporting required of Antari.

8 Communicating with customers

Identify yourself as an independent participant and disclose clearly when you may benefit from a referral. Use current Antari materials and state the full price, conditions and limitations of an offer. You may not guarantee income, rank, occupancy, resale, dividends or recovery of a purchase price. Never present a maximum-capacity calculation as a typical result. Only use earnings claims Antari has substantiated for that market, including required information about typical expenses and net results.

Obtain permission before contacting a prospect. Honor opt-outs. Do not buy contact lists for bulk invitations, misrepresent scarcity, take payments outside approved channels, enroll someone without their authority, or claim medical or investment benefits for AI services. You cannot bind Antari, change its terms or act as its employee or representative. Use its marks only to identify approved offerings and stop using them when your participation ends.

9 Data and confidential information

Use referral and customer information only to administer a relationship the person authorized. Keep account and Grid information confidential. Do not export participant lists for unrelated marketing or share verification codes. Report suspected misuse promptly through Antari Support. Follow applicable privacy and electronic marketing requirements for your own outreach. The Business Partner Privacy Notice describes Antari’s handling of program records.

10 Suspension and ending participation

You may end participation by notifying Antari Support. Specify whether you also wish to cancel a separate subscription or request account closure. Antari may restrict access promptly to protect accounts, investigate fraud or comply with law. For a remediable material breach, it will explain the issue and give a reasonable opportunity to correct it. It may terminate participation for an unresolved material breach, deliberate fraud or where continued service would be unlawful. You may ask support to review a decision.

At termination, stop using program marks, issuing invitations and using customer information for program promotion. Antari will reconcile qualifying pre-termination transactions under the schedule. Expiry or termination does not automatically forfeit earned amounts or determine the treatment of paid capacity. The applicable order, refund terms and mandatory rights govern that capacity. Payment obligations, confidentiality, data protection and dispute provisions survive as needed to give them effect.

11 Changes and disputes

Antari will identify revised terms and schedules by date and version and provide reasonable advance notice of material changes through the account or registered email. Material changes to future earnings or obligations require notice before the affected activity and fresh acceptance where required. Changes do not alter completed orders or retroactively reduce earned amounts. You may decline a new version and end participation under the preceding section.

Send a dispute to https://support.antari.ai/ with your account identifier, transaction or statement reference, and the remedy you seek. Either party may seek relief from a competent court. Mandatory consumer protections, local rights of withdrawal and access to regulators or courts remain available. If a provision is unenforceable, the remainder applies to the extent lawful. Electronic acceptance records identify the accepting account, document version and time.